Street dance lovers, your time has come! In December 2020, breakdancing became an Olympic sport. It will make its Olympic debut (首秀) in Paris, in 2024. The competition is scheduled to be held on Aug. 9 and 10, 2024.

Breakdancing is also called breaking. It is a type of street dance. It was started in New York City by young African Americans in the 1970s, which was their way of expressing themselves!

Breaking is a sport and an art. It can be played anywhere and anytime. It includes many difficult moves. They may walk on their hands, or spin (旋转) their heads or backs on the floor. So dancers need good skills and strength.

Break-dancers are called b-boys or b-girls. There are about one million of them around the world. At the Paris 2024 Games, 16 b-boys and 16 b-girls will go face-to-face in solo battles. Many break-dancers are excited to be a part of the Olympic world. And some will soon be dancing their way to gold medals!

China's first national breakdancing team was founded in 2023. The team entered several important competitions. And young break dancers are training very hard now for the Olympic Games. Look forward to their excellent performance.
